

Ballingslöv International has appointed Björn Hauber as new Managing Director and CEO

Björn Hauber has been appointed Managing Director and CEO of Ballingslöv International from the 14th of September 2020. He succeeds Anders Wassberg, who during the autumn of 2020 will take over as CEO of Ballingslöv International's parent company, Stena Adactum. Anders Wassberg will take over as Chairman of the Board of Ballingslöv International according to previous communication.

Björn Hauber, 49 years old, comes from a long career within the Daimler Group, most recently as CEO of Mercedes-Benz Sweden and Denmark.

Martin Svalstedt, Chairman of the Board, comments on the appointment:

"After an extensive recruitment process, we can conclude that Ballingslöv International generated a lot of interest. Björn Hauber's commercial achievements with experience from capital goods in an international perspective in combination with his eminent leadership qualities has made him a natural fit for our Group.

Ballingslöv International's Board of Directors is very pleased to have been able to attract Björn to lead the continued development of the Group's operations within the framework of Ballingslöv International's business concept and strategic direction".

To further strengthen the Group management and provide management continuity Magnus Hegdal is appointed Deputy CEO as well as CFO where he spans finance as well as IT and sustainability.

Martin Svalstedt continues:

"Magnus's appointment is well deserved and further recognizes his commitment to both the culture and strategic direction of the business"

"The Board would like to express their gratitude to Anders Wassberg for the good development that Ballingslöv International has had under his leadership and wishes Björn Hauber a warm welcome to his new role."
